He came from far across the sea, bringing a part of

He came resolved to preach the faith,
as solid as the red brick classroom he lived in. Passing time showed arched lights in fevered study, slowly fusing knowledge and experience;
praying in the church that saw revolution
as he saw it, that preached revolution of man's soul.
Now well versed, face smiling, hand shaking,
He clutches one of the first parchment given here . . .

Dr. Theodore A. Rath
President of the College

I like this college generation, for you have a deep concern for people—for other people as well as for yourselves. Yet more than former student generations you have turned away from the symbols and doctrines of your fathers because, as you say, "They are not relevant." The new seal of your college bears the lamp of learning the open book of faith, and the cross, symbol of unselfish dedication.

These are symbols of yesterday, but I believe you will discover that they are also the best teachers for tomorrow.

BLOOMFIELD COLLEGE

. . . Bloomfield College is a college of liberal arts. Located in a suburban community, it offers a four-year coeducational program of academic study with opportunities for growth through the union of ideas and the advancement of thought.

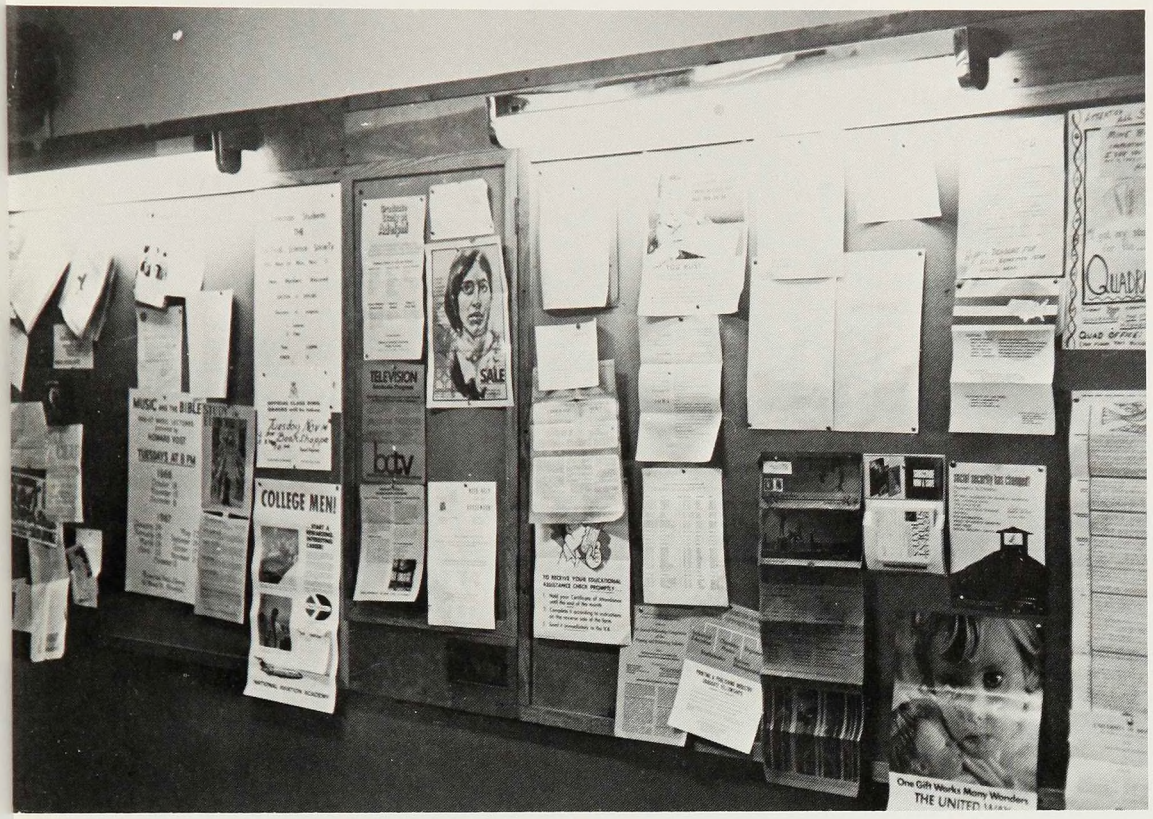

The college environment provides an outline for experience at many levels. An intellectual program of academics combined with an increasing amount of adult responsibility add an indelible mark to the developing student.

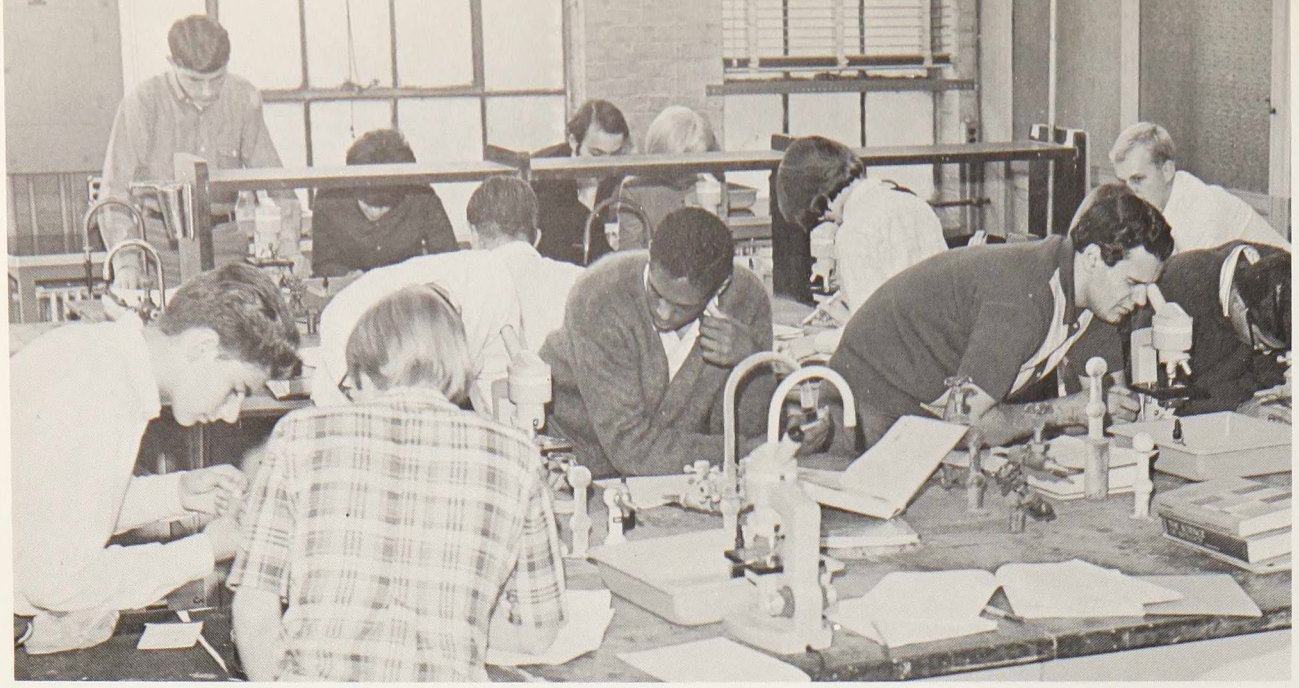

Social opportunities and student activities guide the student to use his freedom as an individual and aid him to foster friendships. They also enable him to add his contribution to the school society.

The academic program of Bloomfield College strives to provide a basis of understanding for life. The guidance of the administration and the instruction of the faculty attempt to build upon this foundation.

H. G. Wells once said: "Strength is the outcome of need; security sets a premium on feebleness." And through this need for expansion, Bloomfield College can gain this strength. A growing institution is never secure; it must progress with new awareness and new thought. It must build and amend or otherwise stagnate.

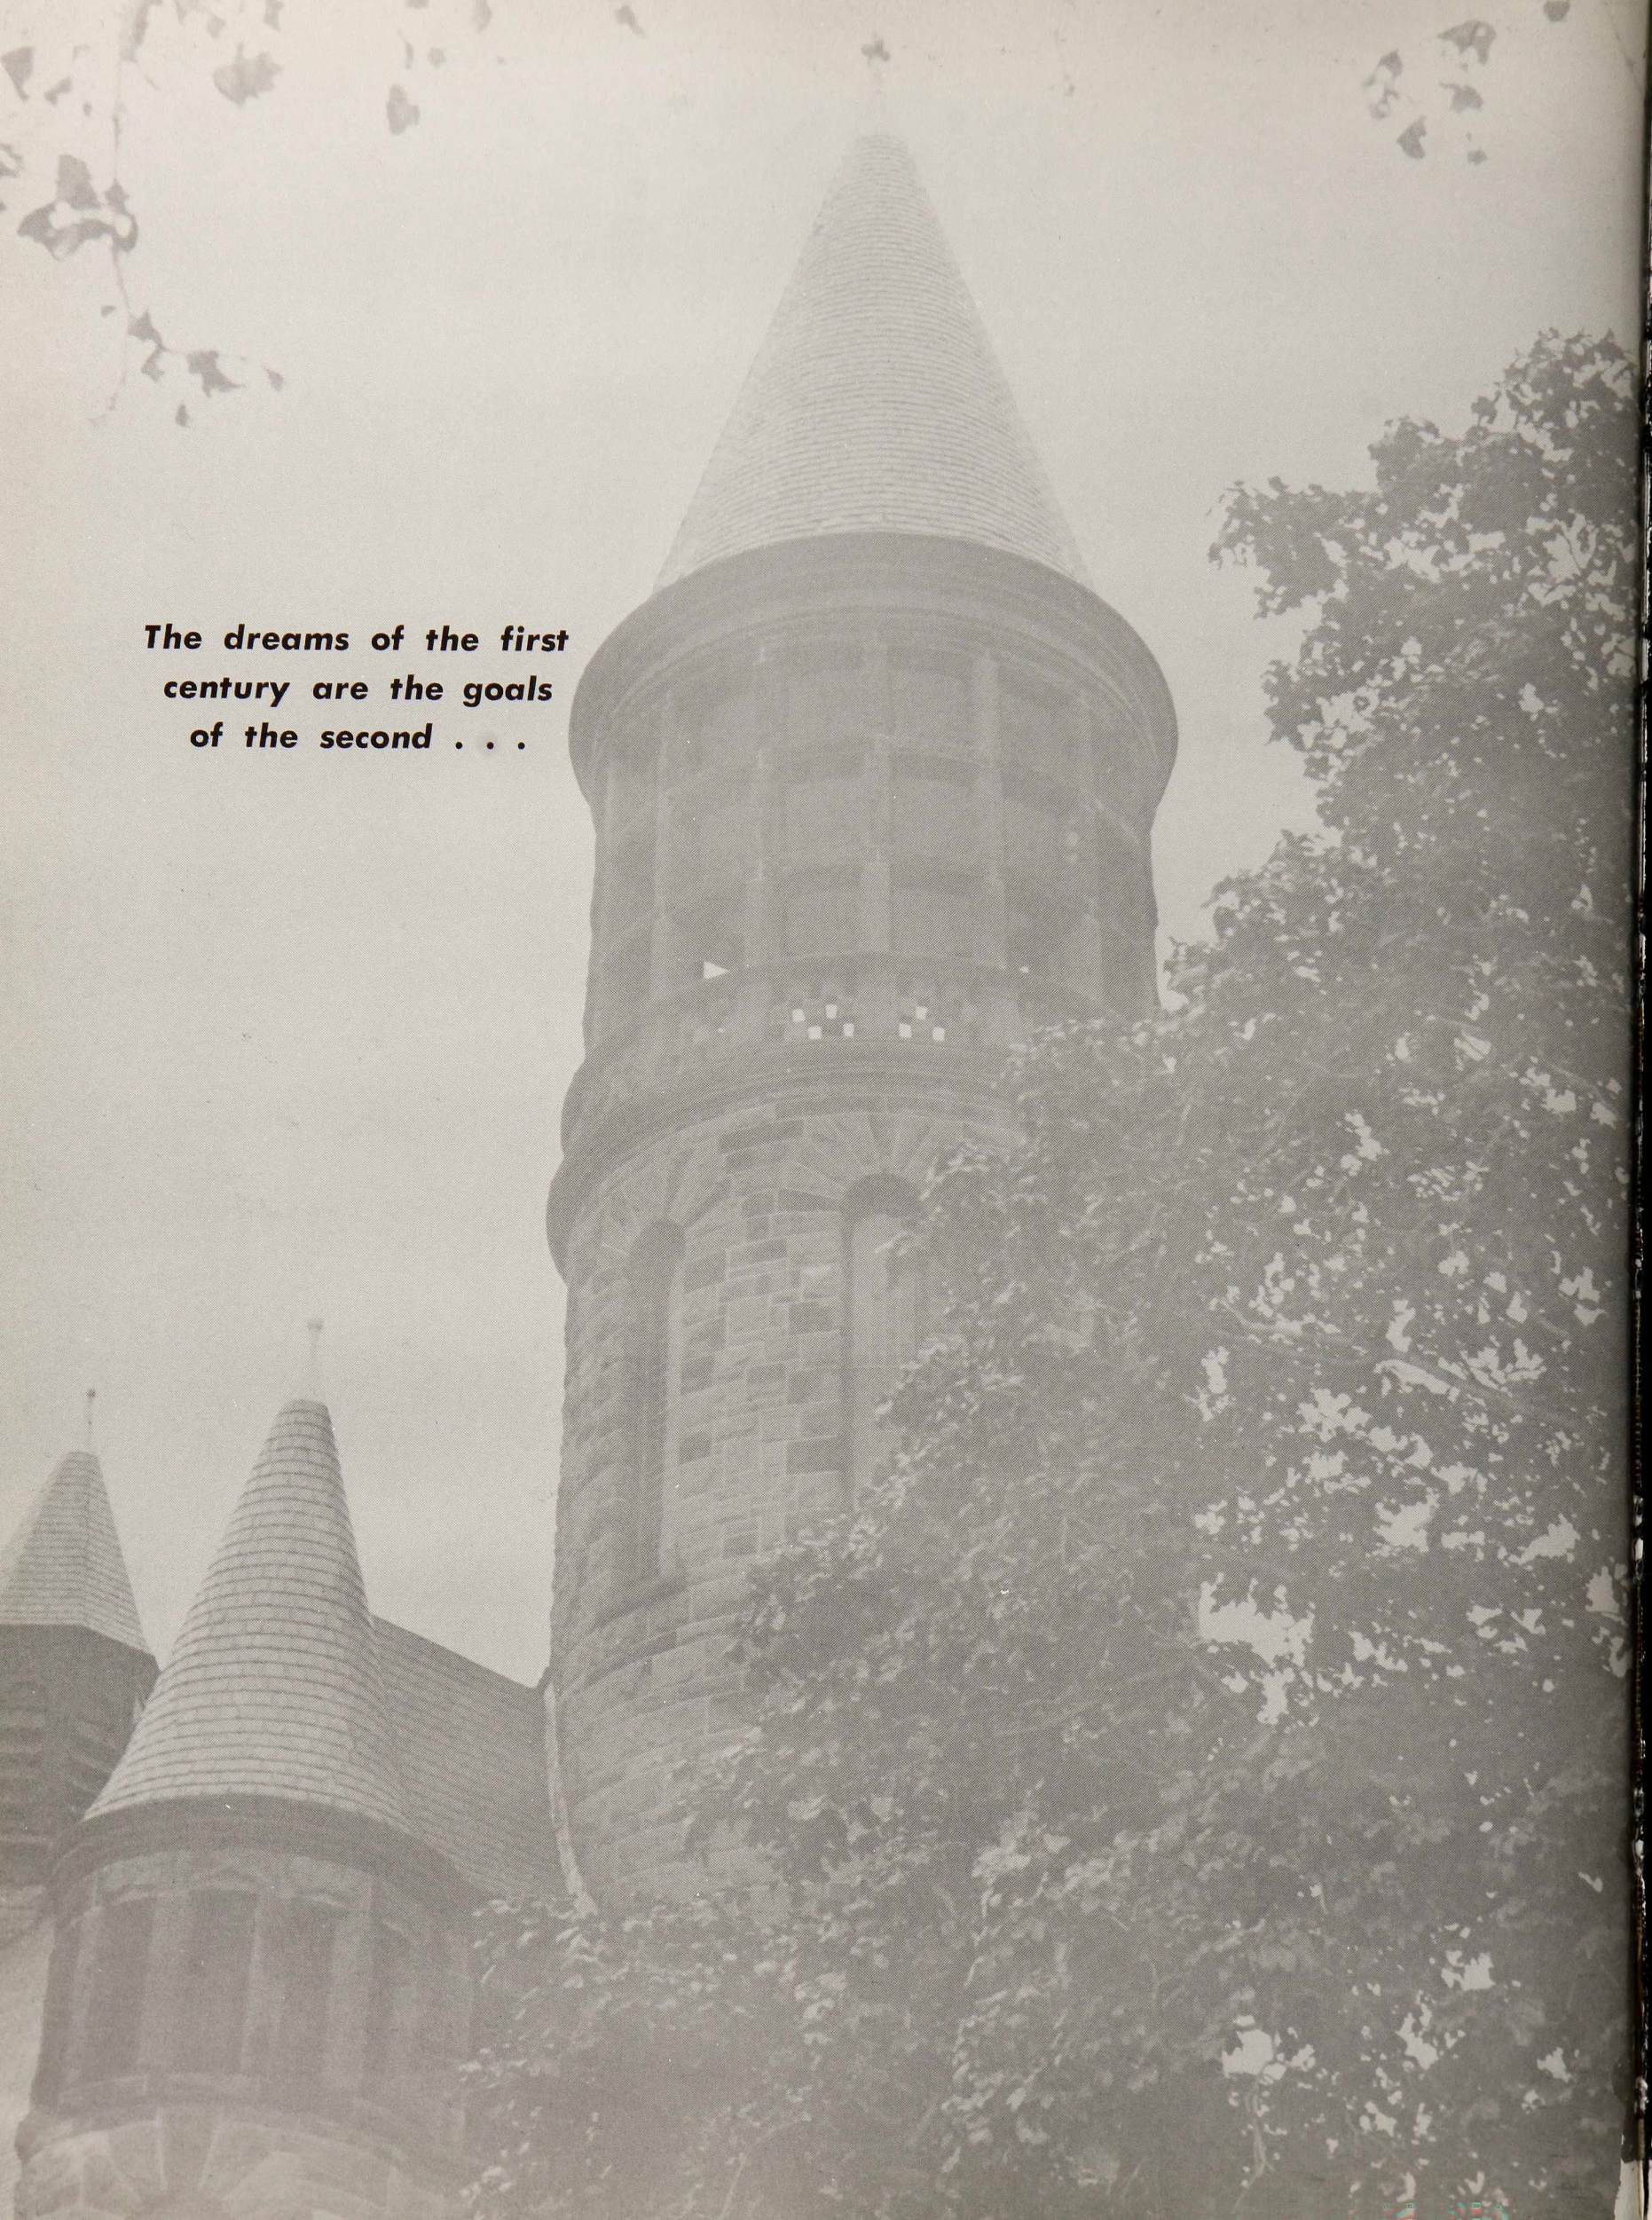

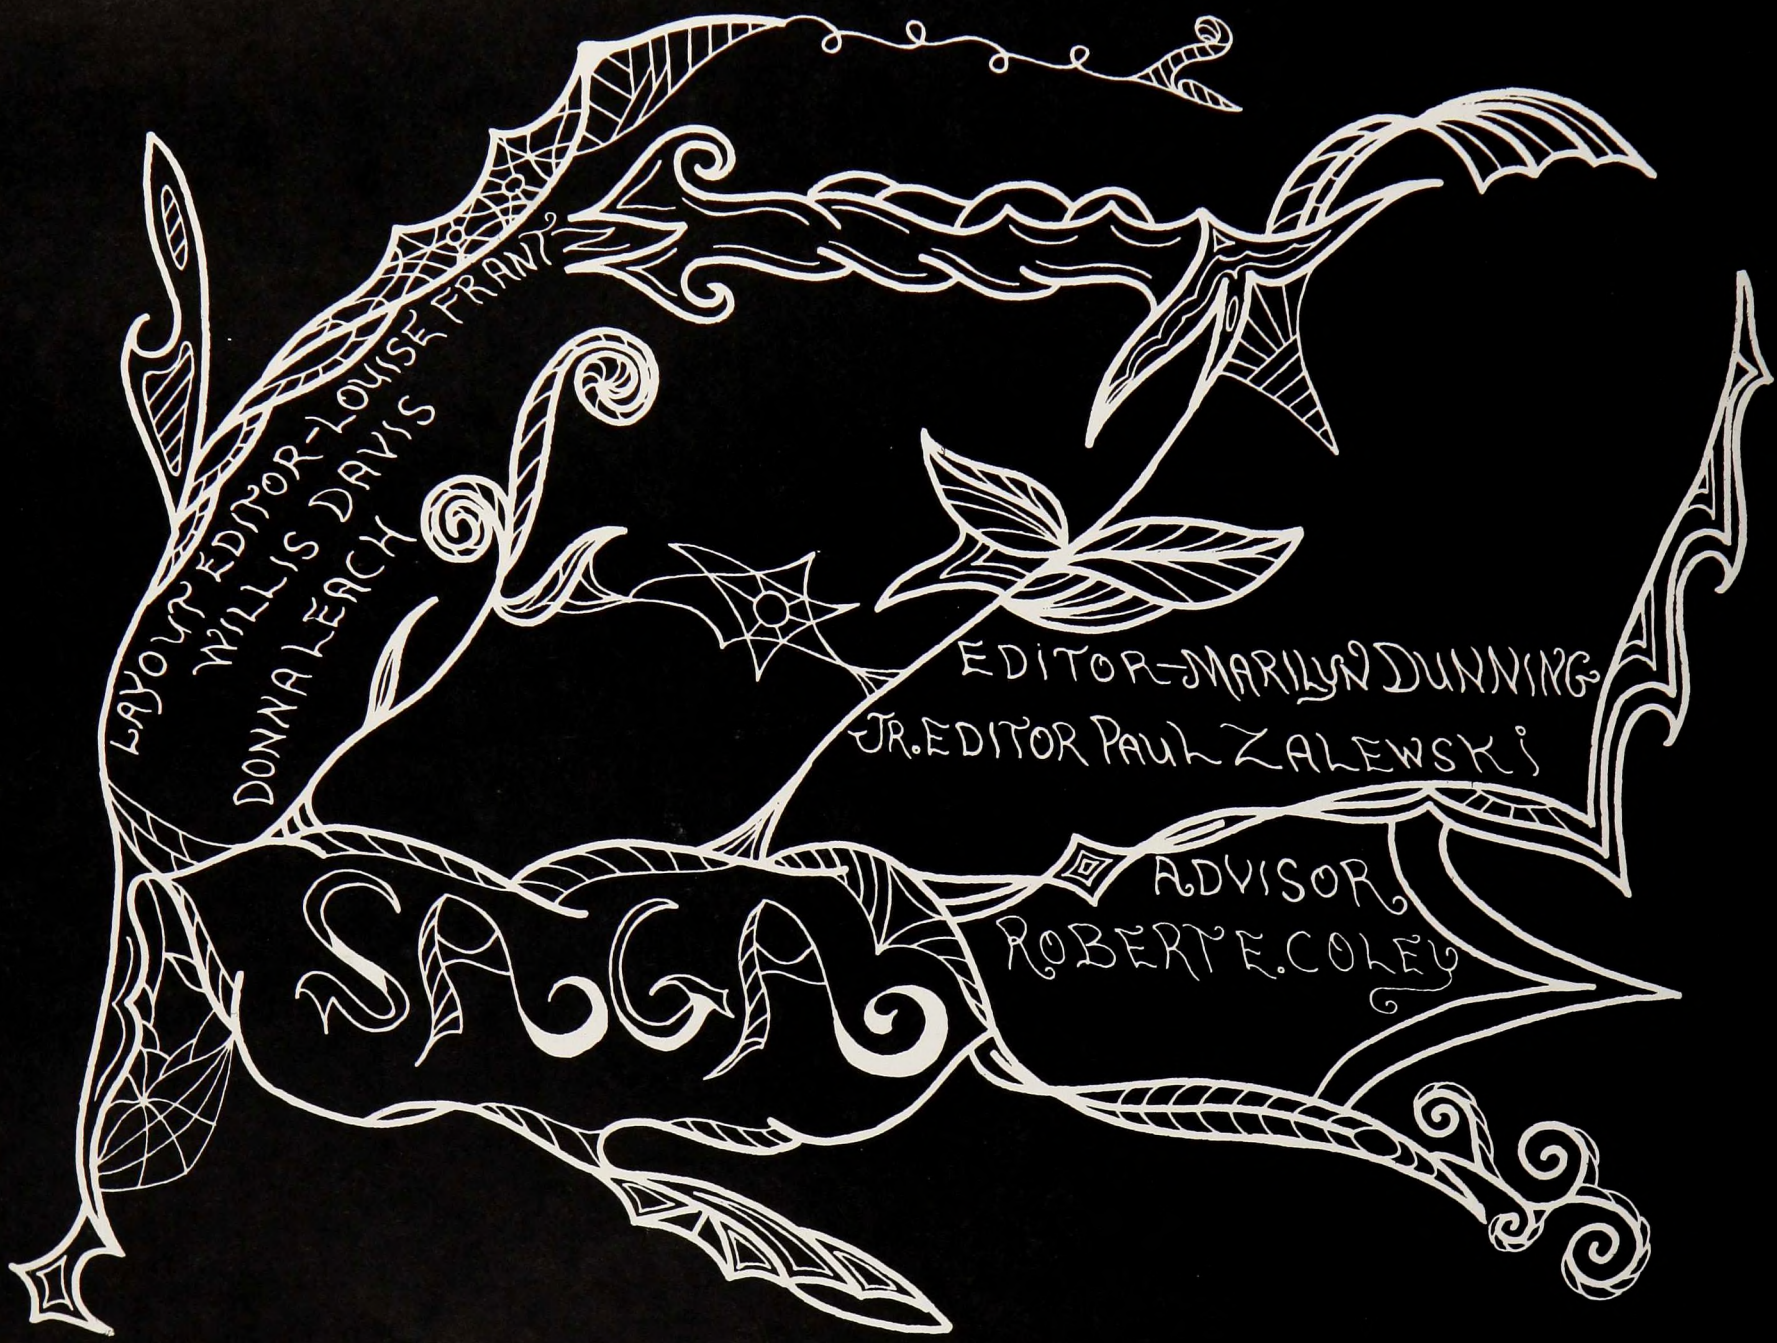

The year 1968 marks the close of the first century in the history of Bloomfield College. The foundation has been laid and the construction must follow.

The dreams of the first century are the goals of the second . . .

. . . knowledge cannot be complete without the aid of practical experience . . .

FROM US TO YOU

From freshman to senior—to graduation
From one year to four—in upward gradation
From girl to woman, trom guy to man—in intimate relation From party to party—
in total intoxication
From memories to memories—in age-ation
From coming to going—in sorrowful separation
From US to YOU—
in health, happiness and creation.

CLASS OF '70

You tell on yourself by the friends you seek.
By the very manner in which you speak;
By the way you employ your leisure time,
By the use you make of dollar and dime.
You tell what you are by the things you wear,
By the spirit in which your burdens you bear;
By the kind of things at which you laugh,
By the records you play on the phonograph.

You tell what you are by the way you walk,
By the things of which you delight to talk;
By the manner in which you bear defeat,
By so simple a thing as how you eat;
By the book you choose from the well-filled shelf.
In these ways and more, you tell on yourself:
So there really is no particle of sense
In an effort to keep up false pretense.
